About This Collection

We know a lot more today than we did a generation ago about the causes of health problems in infants. We know more, too, about the things that parents can do, from the very beginning of a pregnancy through the first very important months of life, to give their babies the best possible start. Our purpose in making this collection of Public Health Service materials available is to share that knowledge with women who are going to have a baby, with "expectant fathers," with the parents of newborns and with others who also have an interest in promoting the health of mothers and babies. Healthy mothers, we want everyone to know, have healthier babies.

Edward N. Brandt, Jr., M.D.
Assistant Secretary for Health
September 1983
